WESTAMPTON — The Friends of Rancocas Nature Center are planning to pay homage to trees or, as they call them, “the Earth’s lungs.”

The fundraising group is hosting its first Arbor Day festival, in honor of the tree-planting holiday celebrated on the last Friday in April, from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday. The free event will be held at the center, a 210-acre attraction in the Rancocas State Park off Rancocas Road.
