Recommended for Ages 4 to 6:

A Frogging We Will Go!

Croak like a bullfrog, peep like a spring peeper. Children will be hopping along with excitement on this frog expedition. Rancocas' dragonfly pond and streams are the perfect place to meet these elusive amphibians.

Making Sense of Nature

Children are aware of their five senses at a young age. Party guests will learn how animal senses are different from ours as they investigate what we see, hear, smell, touch, and taste in nature.

For all ages:

Scales and Tails

Is a snake really slimy? Can a turtle come out of its shell? Find out when we investigate the scaly world of reptiles. Party guests will have the chance to get up close and personal with these creatures as they handle our resident reptiles, and learn about their unique lifestyles. Because this program can be done indoors or out, it is a great year-round activity.

For all ages:

Scavenger Treasure Hunt

Finding hidden treasure is always exciting. A series of riddles and clues will send party guests exploring the Rancocas trails. Along the way, we're sure to discover why the natural world is a special place.

Tri-Habitat Investigation

Butterflies fluttering in the meadow, deer sprinting through the forest, frogs hopping into the stream—we never know who we may find along our trails. Children will explore three different habitats looking for plants and animals through an interactive hike.

Wilderness Survival

Ever wonder if you could live out in the wild? Learn some of the skills needed to make it in the great outdoors.

Skulls and Bones

How can you tell if an animal is a herbivore or carnivore? What is the difference between an antler and a horn? Clues lie in the skulls and bones. Learn about animals from the inside out!

Mammals of Rancocas

The mammals of RNC are elusive, but signs of their presence can be found along the trails. Children will become detectives of nature on this trip as they explore the preserve for the wildlife that lives here.

Bugs, Bugs, Bugs

Crawling through the dirt, flying through the air, insects are all around us, we just have to look for them! Party guests will hit the trails, and may find themselves turning over logs or waving nets through the air in search of insects in each of Rancocas' habitats.

Birds of a Feather

Your own backyard is home to many different types of birds. Learn all about birds and how to identify the species you see everyday. After we have the basics down, we will take our binoculars and see what we can find in the various Rancocas habitats and along the trails.

Meadow Mysteries

Explore our meadow, collect colorful butterflies and bugs, and discover the plants and wildlife that live with them in this habitat.
